THE BATAVIA BANQUET AT THE ALEXANDRA PALACE.
THE BALA CLAVA BANQUET.

MAJOR-GENERAL DE RAILA, 8TH HUSSARS.

LIEUT-COLONEL RUSSELMAN, 16TH HUSSARS.

COLONEL SCAWEN, 8TH HUSSARS.

F. E. WOODMAN (CHAIRMAN COM.), 15TH LANCERS.

CORPORAL CAMPBELL, 13TH HUSSARS.

TRUMPET-MAJOR HARRY JAY, 15TH LANCERS.

SERGEANT LUTHERIDGE, R.N.A.

G. BROWN, 8TH HUSSARS.

SERGEANT-MAJOR W. G. CATTENHOLME, 17TH LANCERS.

F. FERNY, 8TH HUSSARS.

W. HARRI, 8TH HUSSARS.

Sergeant G. WETHERSBY, 17TH LANCERS.

Sergeant G. POWELL, 11TH HUSSARS.

Corporal W. BROWNE, 13TH HUSSARS.

Sergeant John REES, 11TH HUSSARS.

SURVIVORS OF THE LIGHT CAVALRY BRIGADE.
The BALACLAVA ANNIVERSARY FESTIVAL.

The survivors of the famous charge of the Light Cavalry were the guests of honor at the Balaklava luncheon at the Alexandria Palace, upon the twenty-fifth anniversary of the battle. The affair was conducted on the lines of a state dinner, and the program was laid on the lines of an address and entertainment program.

The dinner was a triumph of hospitality, and the speeches were delivered by the most distinguished guests of honor.

The 4th and 13th regiments of light cavalry were also present at the Balaklava Luncheon. They are the regiments which were present in the charge of the Light Cavalry.
Well, we merely trotted at first, but when we came within cannon-shot we got our horses into a corner. Captain Nolan, who was in advance, ordered a halter to be thrown to him, and two of the soldiers on foot ran up and brought us the horses. Then we walked over the valley, which was about a mile and a quarter in length, and passed on till we came to a large field, where we found four or five of our men asleep, looking as if they had nothing to eat except a small piece of bread, which I gave them.

We were as hungry as a starved dog, and we soon made ourselves comfortable. After we had eaten, I went over to the camp to see if I could find any provisions, but I could not find any. Then I went back to our men and told them what I had found. We were all very much surprised, but we were glad to have anything. We were as hungry as a starving dog.

The next day we went on, and we saw a great many of our men. We were as hungry as a starved dog, and we soon made ourselves comfortable. After we had eaten, I went over to the camp to see if I could find any provisions, but I could not find any. Then I went back to our men and told them what I had found. We were all very much surprised, but we were glad to have anything. We were as hungry as a starving dog.
base of which were relics of the engagement, with the names of the battles. The name of the Queen, which was engraved on the obverse, Oct. 26, 1859. Along the hall, and extending from the trophy to the end of the building, was an exhibit of trophies and cases of arms and of:the oldest and rarest of the arms and helmets and other parts of military equipment. The collection included a fine group of armors, some of which were found in the baggage of Prince Montiggliani, which was also displayed. The entire collection was built around the central attraction, the charger which carried the Earl of Cornwallis while leading his men to battle at the Battle of Bunker Hill. This charger was a remarkable object, being a life-sized, horse-sized model, beautifully carved and painted, and it was the centerpiece of the exhibition.

The next day, after the Civil War, was another interesting day with the 7th Regiment, who kindly lent them for the occasion. The parade was held on the parade ground of the 7th Regiment, and it was a sight to behold with all the regiments present.

The Illustrated London News, Oct. 26, 1859

The Charge of the Light Brigade

The story of the Charge of the Light Brigade is one of the most famous incidents in the history of the British Army. It took place during the Crimean War, on October 25, 1854. The Light Brigade was a regiment of the British Army, and it was commanded by Captain John Scott, the 7th Earl of Moira. The brigade consisted of the 6th and 28th Regiments of Foot, and it was under the command of Major General Sir George Sibree, the 1st Baronet. The Light Brigade was part of the British forces that were engaged in the Crimean War, which was a conflict between the Ottoman Empire and Russia.

The Light Brigade was ordered to charge a Russian field gun battery, which was located in a position that was considered to be strongly held by the Russians. The Light Brigade was led by Captain John Scott, and it was commanded by Major General Sir George Sibree, the 1st Baronet. The Light Brigade was part of the British forces that were engaged in the Crimean War, which was a conflict between the Ottoman Empire and Russia.

The Light Brigade was ordered to charge a Russian field gun battery, which was located in a position that was considered to be strongly held by the Russians. The Light Brigade was led by Captain John Scott, and it was commanded by Major General Sir George Sibree, the 1st Baronet. The Light Brigade was part of the British forces that were engaged in the Crimean War, which was a conflict between the Ottoman Empire and Russia.

The Light Brigade was ordered to charge a Russian field gun battery, which was located in a position that was considered to be strongly held by the Russians. The Light Brigade was led by Captain John Scott, and it was commanded by Major General Sir George Sibree, the 1st Baronet. The Light Brigade was part of the British forces that were engaged in the Crimean War, which was a conflict between the Ottoman Empire and Russia.

The Light Brigade was ordered to charge a Russian field gun battery, which was located in a position that was considered to be strongly held by the Russians. The Light Brigade was led by Captain John Scott, and it was commanded by Major General Sir George Sibree, the 1st Baronet. The Light Brigade was part of the British forces that were engaged in the Crimean War, which was a conflict between the Ottoman Empire and Russia.

The Light Brigade was ordered to charge a Russian field gun battery, which was located in a position that was considered to be strongly held by the Russians. The Light Brigade was led by Captain John Scott, and it was commanded by Major General Sir George Sibree, the 1st Baronet. The Light Brigade was part of the British forces that were engaged in the Crimean War, which was a conflict between the Ottoman Empire and Russia.

The Light Brigade was ordered to charge a Russian field gun battery, which was located in a position that was considered to be strongly held by the Russians. The Light Brigade was led by Captain John Scott, and it was commanded by Major General Sir George Sibree, the 1st Baronet. The Light Brigade was part of the British forces that were engaged in the Crimean War, which was a conflict between the Ottoman Empire and Russia.

The Light Brigade was ordered to charge a Russian field gun battery, which was located in a position that was considered to be strongly held by the Russians. The Light Brigade was led by Captain John Scott, and it was commanded by Major General Sir George Sibree, the 1st Baronet. The Light Brigade was part of the British forces that were engaged in the Crimean War, which was a conflict between the Ottoman Empire and Russia.

The Light Brigade was ordered to charge a Russian field gun battery, which was located in a position that was considered to be strongly held by the Russians. The Light Brigade was led by Captain John Scott, and it was commanded by Major General Sir George Sibree, the 1st Baronet. The Light Brigade was part of the British forces that were engaged in the Crimean War, which was a conflict between the Ottoman Empire and Russia.

The Light Brigade was ordered to charge a Russian field gun battery, which was located in a position that was considered to be strongly held by the Russians. The Light Brigade was led by Captain John Scott, and it was commanded by Major General Sir George Sibree, the 1st Baronet. The Light Brigade was part of the British forces that were engaged in the Crimean War, which was a conflict between the Ottoman Empire and Russia.

The Light Brigade was ordered to charge a Russian field gun battery, which was located in a position that was considered to be strongly held by the Russians. The Light Brigade was led by Captain John Scott, and it was commanded by Major General Sir George Sibree, the 1st Baronet. The Light Brigade was part of the British forces that were engaged in the Crimean War, which was a conflict between the Ottoman Empire and Russia.

The Light Brigade was ordered to charge a Russian field gun battery, which was located in a position that was considered to be strongly held by the Russians. The Light Brigade was led by Captain John Scott, and it was commanded by Major General Sir George Sibree, the 1st Baronet. The Light Brigade was part of the British forces that were engaged in the Crimean War, which was a conflict between the Ottoman Empire and Russia.

The Light Brigade was ordered to charge a Russian field gun battery, which was located in a position that was considered to be strongly held by the Russians. The Light Brigade was led by Captain John Scott, and it was commanded by Major General Sir George Sibree, the 1st Baronet. The Light Brigade was part of the British forces that were engaged in the Crimean War, which was a conflict between the Ottoman Empire and Russia.
The ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS

OCT. 30, 1905

413

The Volunteens.

The volunette movement, which is one of the principal events which took place last week.

The annual prize-meeting of the No. 3 Company of the St. George's Own Welsh Light Infantry, held at the Havelock Hut, Goold Park, took place last Saturday. A very large number of prizes were competed for, consisting of a variety of books and medals, and the value of prizes was £50. In the first series the winners were—1, Private Trench, with a score of 100; 2, Private Smith, 97; 3, Private Bull, 95; Private Price, 95; 4, Private Jones, 93; Private Williams, 93. There were two series of matches, each consisting of 25 shots. The first series consisted of six rounds, each round consisting of five shots.

A match was held between twelve men from the 8th and 9th Battalions, and the winner was Sergeant Broad, with 39 points. The exclusive competition of the 9th Battalion took place at Criccieth, when the following were the principal winners:—1, Captain Jones; 2, Captain Price; 3, Corporal James; 4, Private Price. There were also prizes for the best score in each section of the course.

The annual prize-meeting of the No. 3 Company of the St. George's Own Welsh Light Infantry, held at the Havelock Hut, Goold Park, took place last Saturday. A very large number of prizes were competed for, consisting of a variety of books and medals, and the value of prizes was £50. In the first series the winners were—1, Private Trench, with a score of 100; 2, Private Smith, 97; 3, Private Bull, 95; Private Price, 95; 4, Private Jones, 93; Private Williams, 93. There were two series of matches, each consisting of 25 shots. The first series consisted of six rounds, each round consisting of five shots.

A match was held between twelve men from the 8th and 9th Battalions, and the winner was Sergeant Broad, with 39 points. The exclusive competition of the 9th Battalion took place at Criccieth, when the following were the principal winners:—1, Captain Jones; 2, Captain Price; 3, Corporal James; 4, Private Price. There were also prizes for the best score in each section of the course.

The annual prize-meeting of the No. 3 Company of the St. George's Own Welsh Light Infantry, held at the Havelock Hut, Goold Park, took place last Saturday. A very large number of prizes were competed for, consisting of a variety of books and medals, and the value of prizes was £50. In the first series the winners were—1, Private Trench, with a score of 100; 2, Private Smith, 97; 3, Private Bull, 95; Private Price, 95; 4, Private Jones, 93; Private Williams, 93. There were two series of matches, each consisting of 25 shots. The first series consisted of six rounds, each round consisting of five shots.

A match was held between twelve men from the 8th and 9th Battalions, and the winner was Sergeant Broad, with 39 points. The exclusive competition of the 9th Battalion took place at Criccieth, when the following were the principal winners:—1, Captain Jones; 2, Captain Price; 3, Corporal James; 4, Private Price. There were also prizes for the best score in each section of the course.

The annual prize-meeting of the No. 3 Company of the St. George's Own Welsh Light Infantry, held at the Havelock Hut, Goold Park, took place last Saturday. A very large number of prizes were competed for, consisting of a variety of books and medals, and the value of prizes was £50. In the first series the winners were—1, Private Trench, with a score of 100; 2, Private Smith, 97; 3, Private Bull, 95; Private Price, 95; 4, Private Jones, 93; Private Williams, 93. There were two series of matches, each consisting of 25 shots. The first series consisted of six rounds, each round consisting of five shots.

A match was held between twelve men from the 8th and 9th Battalions, and the winner was Sergeant Broad, with 39 points. The exclusive competition of the 9th Battalion took place at Criccieth, when the following were the principal winners:—1, Captain Jones; 2, Captain Price; 3, Corporal James; 4, Private Price. There were also prizes for the best score in each section of the course.

The annual prize-meeting of the No. 3 Company of the St. George's Own Welsh Light Infantry, held at the Havelock Hut, Goold Park, took place last Saturday. A very large number of prizes were competed for, consisting of a variety of books and medals, and the value of prizes was £50. In the first series the winners were—1, Private Trench, with a score of 100; 2, Private Smith, 97; 3, Private Bull, 95; Private Price, 95; 4, Private Jones, 93; Private Williams, 93. There were two series of matches, each consisting of 25 shots. The first series consisted of six rounds, each round consisting of five shots.

A match was held between twelve men from the 8th and 9th Battalions, and the winner was Sergeant Broad, with 39 points. The exclusive competition of the 9th Battalion took place at Criccieth, when the following were the principal winners:—1, Captain Jones; 2, Captain Price; 3, Corporal James; 4, Private Price. There were also prizes for the best score in each section of the course.
Balaklava Commemoration Banquet
ALEXANDRA PALACE, MONDAY, OCT. 25TH 1875

MENU

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>SOUPS</th>
<th>FISH</th>
<th>ENTREES</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Game</td>
<td>Crimped Cod, Oyster Sauce</td>
<td>Sweetbreads larded, Tomato Sauce</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Clear Ox Tail</td>
<td>Boiled Turbot, Lobster Sauce</td>
<td>Chicken Sauté, with Mushrooms</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>FISH</td>
<td>Stewed Eels, Red Mullets</td>
<td>Lamb Cutlets, Purée of Chicorée</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Fried Eels and Fillets of Soles</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

RELEVES

- Roast Saddles of Mutton
- Sirloin of Beef
- York Hams
- Glazed Tongues
- Roast and Boiled Capons
- Baron of Beef
- Roast Pheasants
- Hares
- Partridges

ENTREMETS

- Maraschino Jelly
- Punch Jelly
- French Pastry
- Pine Apple Creams
- Hot Plum Puddings
- Bomb of Fruits
- Balaklava Puddings

DESSERT

BERTRAM & ROBERTS

ALEXANDRA PALACE